Duty of Candour

“The Organisational Duty of Candour is a statutory (legal) duty on Scottish organisations providing health and social care, to be open and honest when something goes wrong that is not related to the course of the condition for which the person is receiving care” (Scottish Government 2018).

When an incident occurs, healthcare professionals must inform and apologise to the person involved, fully explaining the potential effects, offer remedy/ support and review their procedures to avoid future occurrences. In addition to this an annual report must be published, providing a summary of the number of incidents that have occurred and triggered the duty of candour policy.

Cairn Medica promotes a culture of transparency and professionalism with a focus on patient safety, reporting any incidents annually.

- How have you made sure that you (and your staff) understand your responsibilities relating to the duty of candour and have systems in place to respond effectively?

Cairn Medica’s Duty of Candour policy was created, written and developed by the Director when the company opened in 2023. The policy informs all staff of their roles and responsibilities relating to the Duty of Candour, the culture of candour and their responsibilities relating to this. About being open, honest and transparent with clients. About apologising should something not be the gold standard expected by all. By taking any distress or harm caused by staff and examining what went wrong and changing policy and practice accordingly. Cairn Medica fully supports the Duty of Candour and culture of candour as a prerequisite to improving quality and safety of service and client experience.
